They served their first assignment in Baghdad, Iraq, during the revolution in 1958. Six weeks after Susan arrived she was flown out by the government for the duration of the revolution, first to Rome, Italy. Later she went to Amsterdam, Holland, to be near Lyle's brother who was teaching on a Fullbright Scholarship. Lyle's family, on his father's side, are in the Netherlands, and aunt Marie van Hengle at the Hague, and aunt Cornelia Gielings as Wassanaar. In Feb. 1959, Susan returned to Iraq when it was considered safe for dependents to return.
